

Huerto Ribera

Experiences among orange trees

The orange tree farm is located in Carcaixent, 40 km from Valencia.
a town known as the "Cradle of the Orange" because the cultivation of sweet oranges began for its export at the end of the 18th century.

In the mid-19th century, the Ribera family began cultivating the fields and in 1870 José Ribera built the current house, recognized as a Monumental Garden for its eclectic style surrounded by gardens in an unbeatable environment. We invite you to learn about our tradition, culture and passion for oranges, values that are still present today, enjoying the Ribera experience among orange trees.

The Cradle of the Orange Carcaixent

We are in Carcaixent, a town located 40km south of Valencia on the banks of the Júcar river. It is an authentic stately palace that is surrounded by centuries-old orange trees and surrounded by a masonry wall of the period and today it is the family home. It is a monumental orchard from the late 19th century, surprising for its architecture and details.
